

Presenters and Session Descriptions

Keynote Speaker

Robin Chaddock is a life coach who helps others clarify values and passions, achieve a sense of balance, and deepen their alliances with God. Through self-evaluations of God-given strengths, beliefs, and passions, participants discern how to full their God-given purpose.

Becoming a Missionary Disciple

In Evangelii Gaudium, Pope Francis proclaimed, “In virtue of their baptism, all the members of the People of God have become missionary disciples.” What does this mean for you? Becky Hampton is the coordinator of Elementary religious Education at OLG, and has been actively involved in presentations about missionary discipleship.

We're on Our Way: St. Teresa's Guide for the Busy Person

We all try to find ways to calm ourselves and still do all we need to do. St. Teresa of Avila founded 17 convents, wrote books, and became a doctor of the Church. Learn how Teresa did it and stayed happy! Dr. Clarice Doucette is an author and educator who teaches French and Spanish. She has offered evenings of reflection on prayer and the spiritual works of mercy at Fatima Retreat House.

God's Word and God's Call: It Takes Time to Know

Although God's call often comes as a surprise, we don't just open the Bible and put our finger on a verse to discern what God wants for us. Fr. Tom Metzger, pastor of OLG, has taught liturgy for the diocesan ELM program, and has consistently garnered great reviews for his presentations on Scripture at this event.

I'm a Doer, Not a Talker: Putting Words to Your Actions

What would happen if you had to minister with empty hands? Do we know why we are ministering and why it is important to know? Jeanne Hidalgo is associate director of Campus Ministry at Marian University. She has served as campus minister for service and social justice for the past 10 years, taught a course on urban issues, and is a certified spiritual director. A mother of four, Jeanne is passionate about women's spirituality, young adult ministry, and Catholic social teaching.

Mary, Model of Discipleship: Being a Disciple in the Hard Times

When everyone is shouting “Hosanna” it's easy to be a disciple... what happens when the shouting stops and you are standing alone beneath the Cross? Donna Proctor has been an instructor in the theology department at Marian University for over 30 years. She has been a presenter with a special interest in Mary and her total assent to God's will.

Planting the Seeds of Discipleship in the Family

How do we, as parents or grandparents, walk with our families in the path of discipleship? How do we pray? How do we act? How do we reflect? Brooke Whitten, doctor and mother of nine, is a Catholic spiritual director. She has homeschooled her children, who minister as altar servers, cantors, and volunteer in many aspects of parish life.

Um... I'm Catholic: Being a Disciple at Work and in the Community

How do you respond to anti-Catholic rhetoric in the community and in the workplace? How do you express your faith to those around you? Alicia Woods is a mother of two and an ACSM Health and fitness specialist who believes in staying fit both physically and spiritually. She is an active parishioner at OLG who strives to lovingly share her faith with everyone she meets.

What Were You Created to Do? Your Personality, Your Prayer, Your Service

We are one faith, but not all have the same gifts. Using the Myers Briggs Personality types, Dr. Dugan will explore how knowing your personality type can help you discern your best fit for personality and service. Kevin Dugan is a licensed clinical psychologist with a practice on the northside of Indianapolis. He also served as a D.R.E. and Pastoral Associate for six years at a Catholic parish on the southside of Indianapolis.
